

PRO-LIFE LECTURE

Melissa Ohden | Abortion Survivors Network

BABIES
SURVIVE
ABORTIONS™

Melissa Ohden

Founder and CEO of Abortion Survivors Network

Now a mother, herself, Melissa Ohden has experienced first-hand what she calls the “intergenerational impact of abortion.” The reality is that abortion doesn’t just impact a woman’s life; it ends a child’s life. It forever changes the lives of everyone it touches, including women, men, extended family members, friends, and our communities.

All are welcome to join us for this Pro-Life Lecture on Friday, November 15. Most people do not realize that sometimes abortion procedures fail, are stopped, or reversed (abortion pill), and survivors exist. Come hear Melissa Ohden share her story as an abortion survivor and pro-life speaker.

In 1977, Melissa’s biological mother was a 19 year old college student when she had a saline infusion abortion that was meant to end Melissa’s life. Although her biological mother thought that she was less than five months pregnant when she had the abortion, the fact that Melissa survived and weighed almost 3 pounds indicates that her biological mother was much further along in her pregnancy than she realized.

“Our culture has hidden the truth about how babies survive abortions. And our culture has left us unsupported. And for many of us sitting in a place of shame and having to grapple on this journey on our own.” - Melissa Ohden
